The Original & Genuine
WORCESTERSHIRE.A Natural Remedy

Time was when disease was thought to be due to the direct influence of evil spirits, and exorcism and magic were invoked to cast it out.

Science has taught us wisdom. The evil spirits exist still. We call them "Disease Germs," and they also must be cast out. Once lodged in the stomach or intestines, fever with its hallucinations, or biliousness with its aches and pains, is the result.

ENO'S
FRUIT SALT

is the approved remedy for driving out disease germs. Its action is quick and thorough. It clears the intestines, rouses the torpid liver to new life, stimulates the mucous membrane to a healthy action, and cleanses and invigorates the whole digestive tract.

It may be safely taken at any time by young or old.

It is very effective in the early stage of Diarrhoea by removing the irritating cause.

Be prepared for emergencies by always keeping a bottle in the house.

THE GERMAN TRAP.

WHAT HAPPENED IN 1912.

Official Statement.

The Foreign Office have issued the following statement which may be regarded as a reply to certain allegations contained in the German Chancellor's recent speech

and in an account of the 1912 negotiations

published by the North German Gazette:—

An account of the 1912 Anglo-German negotiations was published in the semi-official Neidliche Allgemeine Zeitung

last month. This account was misleading, and was no doubt intended to mislead, and made it appear that the British Government had at that time agreed what would be regarded in many quarters as a reasonable offer of friendship

from Germany.

In these circumstances it may be as well to publish a statement of the facts concerned from official records here. Early in 1912 the German Chancellor sketched

to Lord Balfour the following formula as one which would meet the views of the Imperial Government:—

1. The high contracting parties assure each other mutually of their desire of peace and friendship.

2. They will not either of them make any proposal to make any (unprovoked)

attack upon the other, or join in any combination or design against the other for purposes of aggression, or become party to any plan or naval or military enterprise alone or in combination with any other Power directed to such an end,

and declare not to be bound by any such engagement.

3. If either of the high contracting parties becomes engaged in a war with one or more Powers in which it cannot be said to be the aggressor the other party

will at least observe towards the Powers entangled in a belligerent neutrality, and will use its utmost endeavour for the localization of the conflict. If either of the high contracting parties is forced to go to war

by obvious provocation from a third party,

it will endeavor to prevent the increase of hostilities, and will endeavor to bring about

an exchange of views concerning their attitude

in such a conflict.

4. The duty of neutrality which arises

out of the preceding article has an application in so far as it may not be reconcilable

with the provisions of the high contracting parties have already made.

5. The making of new agreements which render it impossible for either of the parties

to observe neutrality towards the other beyond what is provided by the preceding provisions is excluded in conformity with the provisions in article 2.

6. The high contracting parties declare that they will do all in their power to prevent differences and misunderstandings

arising between either of them and other

Powers.

ONE-SIDED CONDITIONS.

These conditions, although in appearance

fair and equal, and one-sided in their operation. Owing to the general position of the European Powers, and the treaty engagements by which they were bound, the result of Articles 4 and 5 would have been

that the high contracting parties would have been bound to observe neutrality towards

each other, and to refrain from any action

which might have been regarded as a provocation to the other party.

It was impossible for us to enter into a contract so obviously inequitable, and the formula was accordingly rejected by Sir

E. Grey.

COUNTER-PROPOSALS.

Count Matternich upon this proposed counter-proposal, which he stated would be without prejudice and not binding unless

we were satisfied that our wishes were met on the naval question. On this understanding Sir Edward Grey, on the 14th

March, 1912 gave Count Matternich the following draft formula, which had been approved by the Cabinet.

England will make no unprovoked attack

upon Germany, and pursue no aggressive

policy towards her.

A question upon Germany is not the subject, and forms no part of any treaty,

understanding, or combination to which

England is now a party, nor will she become a party to anything that has such an object.

Count Matternich thought this formula

inadequate, and suggested two alternative formulations:—

England will therefore observe at least a benevolent neutrality should war be forced upon Germany; or

England will therefore, as a matter of course, remain neutral if a war is forced upon Germany.

This, he added, would not be binding

unless our wishes were met with regard to the naval programme.

Sir Edward Grey considered that the British proposals were sufficient. He explained that, if Germany desired to crush

France, England might not be able to do

still, though, if France were aggressive or attacked Germany, no support would be given by His Majesty's Government or approved by England. It is obvious that the real object of the German proposal was to obtain the neutrality of England in all contingencies, since, should a war break

out, Germany would certainly contend that it had been forced upon her, and would claim that England should remain neutral. An admirable example of this is the present war, in which in spite of the fact, Germany contends that war has been forced upon her. Even the third member of the Triple Alliance, who had sources of information not open to us, did not share

this view, but regarded it as an aggressive

war.

Sir Edward Grey said that, he could understand that there would be disappointment if His Majesty's Government were to state that the carrying out of the Novelle would put an end to the negotiations and form an innumerable chain of better relations. His Majesty's Government did not say this, and they hoped the formula which they had suggested might be considered in connection with the discussion of territorial arrangements, even if it did not prove effective in preventing the increase of naval expenditure.

Sir Edward Grey added that if some arrangement could be made between the two Governments it would have a favourable though indirect effect upon naval expenditure as time went on; it would be, moreover, a favorable and direct effect upon public opinion in both countries.

THE GERMAN DEMAND.

Count Matternich thereupon received instructions to make it quite clear that the Chancellor would recommend the Emperor

to give up the essential parts of the Novelle

(the Bill then pending for the increase of the German Navy) only if we could concede

an agreement guaranteeing neutrality of land, sea, and air, and the withdrawal of the far-reaching character and leaving no doubt as to any interpretation. He admitted that the Chancellor's wish amounted to a guarantee of absolute neutrality, falling

which the Novelle must proceed.

Count Matternich stated that there was no chance of the withdrawal of the Novelle,

but said that it might be modified, it would be disappointing to the Chancellor if we did not go beyond the formula we had suggested.

Sir Edward Grey eventually proposed

the following formula:—

The two Powers being mutualy desirous

THE BALKANS' TURMOIL.

TO-DAY'S telegrams make it more than ever evident that the turmoil now raging in the Balkans is much more likely to increase than diminish during the next few weeks. It is likewise also evident that the Bulgarians will have every reason to be profoundly sorry of the folly that prompted them to throw in their lot with the modern Huns and the Turks. Already the Bulgarians are suffering heavily and their support of Varna and Burgas are at the mercy of the Russian Fleet, the appearance of which has, one of the latest telegrams states, caused "indescribable panic" at these ports. It is to be hoped that the "effective bombardment" that is now proceeding there will bring Bulgaria's leaders to their senses before a general rising—which seems imminent—takes place among the Bulgarians (the majority of whom favour Russia in preference to Germany) with disastrous effect to those who have so rashly precipitated Bulgaria into the turmoil. Even against vast numerical superiority the Serbians are still holding out most gallantly, and now that the Allies are within easy distance towards rendering effective assistance the Serbians may be relied upon to continue to cope successfully against their big and bullying neighbours. The Bulgarians' attacks in the battle at Kupruli "have been completely arrested owing to a flank offensive attack by French troops on the south." This statement, in conjunction with another just made to the effect that the "Serbians claim to have taken part of Uskub," points to Serbian successes that should go a long way towards determining supremacy in the Balkans, ultimately in the Dardanelles, and, later, in Constantinople. There is every reason to believe that the day is not far distant when the Allies will be completely triumphant in the Balkans.

A Chinese was sentenced to two months' hard labour by Mr. Hazledorn to-day for seducing a Chinese constable while in the execution of his duty in Morrison Road yesterday.

Found hanging to a tree near the third milestone on the Taikeo Road, having apparently committed suicide, the body of a Chinaman, apparently aged 35, has been sent to the public mortuary.

Mr. F. C. Jenkin, Deputy Superintendent of the Police Reserve, was entertained to dinner at the T. Yuen restaurant on Friday by the Inspectors and Sergeants of the Reserve Chinese Company.

The Royal Naval Yard Mess "Social" on Saturday was such a big success that a similar entertainment will be held once a month during the winter season. No less than twenty-one persons contributed to Saturday's programme which terminated with the National Anthem of all the Allies.

Inspector P. O'Sullivan, at the Magistracy this morning, before Mr. Hazledorn, charged a Chinese and his wife with keeping an opium den. Nine other Chinese were charged as frequenters. The first defendant was fined $250 or, three months' imprisonment, the woman discharged, and the others, each fined $2 or five days.

The weekly return of communicable diseases, issued from the office of the Medical Officer of Health, shows that there was one fatal Chinese case of bubonic plague, three fatal outbreaks of cholera (one Japanese and two Chinese); three fatal Chinese cases of diphtheria; four notifications of enteric fever, (one fatal) involving one British, one Indian and two Chinese; and one fatal case of puerperal fever. The total number of deaths from plague since the beginning of the year is 135 and the number of outbreaks 139.

Charged with cruelty to a dog belonging to Mr. H. J. Gedgo, a Chinese was fined $15 or a month's imprisonment by Mr. Hazledorn at the police-court to-day. Defendant said it was an accident. Mr. Preston, prosecuting, called evidence that a coolie who was taking the dog to Dr. Gibson to have its eyes examined was standing near the tram-lines when defendant came up and deliberately poured about a cupful of boiling water over the dog from a kettle he was carrying. When spoken to defendant said "I am pouring the water on the dog. I did not pour it on you."

WANCHAI FACTORY STRIKE.

Protest against Fine System.

An alleged excessive fine system, and the beating of two girls for laughing in the street, I do about 200 girls employed by the Nanyang and Yunnan Tobacco Company's factory at 189, Wanchai Road coming out on strike yesterday afternoon. The strikers, after stopping work, left the factory and made a demonstration outside with the intention of intimidating the other workers. Following interviews by a Police Inspector with the general manager and some of the hands, the dispute was amicably settled, and all the girls returned to work.

LOST CHORDS OF STREET
CORNER.

Vanished Organs and German Bands.

None of the minor arts has suffered more severely through this all-pervading war than the street music industry. Gone are the glad sounds which used to cheer us, on sunny mornings, afternoon, and evening in our suburban streets. The blast of the bugle, however, a writer, has drowned the wretched utterances of the street corner cornet; nobody expects the street music of the East. The last quiver of Bethlehem and the Holy City has died away.

As for that cherished and tenderly nurtured institution of ours, the German Band, is vanishing from our midst with the complete disappearance of a conjuring trick. Playing to the Fatherland, these amiable professors of sound and heated fury were welcomed beyond the Rhine with open arms and by reason of their peculiar knowledge of the "London" streets were given the most lucrative posts on the Prussian Intelligence Staff. We have seen and heard the last of them and their provoking melodies. It is an ill air which blows nobody good.

The stomp in street piano trade is not nearly so full as it was in the days of the German Band, which is the chief supply base for these producers of mechanical melody. The "trade" has faded to nothing. Hundreds and hundreds of street pianos are here "resting" and rusting. There used to be a grand trade in this business—the hiring out of systems—mainly through Italian patronage. But the Allies have changed all that, and the "Toscani" bands with the sombre and the flashing eye is now engaged in very different work.

one of us—a good many of us—may be glad that this kind of entertainment is no longer with us. That is a selfish sentiment. Our annoyances are sometimes other people's pleasures. One has only to take a journey down among the mean streets of London on a warm summer evening, when the music of the street pianos is so prevalent, to see the effect of these melodies on the minds of thousands of gay little revellers, whose nightly habit it has been to dance and caper to the sprightly strains of the jangling street pianos. But now the mean streets are silent and gloomy. It's a cruel world!

CRIMINAL SESSIONS.

CHINESE MERCHANTS CHARGED WITH PERJURY.

Three indictments for perjury which are expected to come before the attention of the Chief Justice (Sir Wm. R. Davies, K.C.) at the Criminal Sessions for over a week, opened to-day.

Mr. Eldon Potter, instructed by Mr. Sheehan, Messrs Deacon, Looker, Deacon, and Harcourt, prosecuted and Mr. H. E. Pollock, K.C. and Mr. P. C. Jenkin, instructed by Mr. F. X. D'Almada defended.

The three prisoners are Hung Hoo Chi, Hung Shun Yu and Hung Hing Yin, and each is charged with wilful and corrupt perjury in a charge of embezzlement against Leung Tze Chi in Mr. Lindell's Court.

Mr. Pollock applied that Hung Hoo Chi, who was proceeded against first, should be accommodated with a chair outside the dock in view of the probable nature of the proceedings. He mentioned that in the famous Chubborne perjury case the defendant was not in the dock.

Mr. Potter said the defendant in the Chubborne perjury case was not even in Court.

His Lordship thought that by according to Mr. Pollock's request, he would be creating a precedent which would be far reaching in its effect. He approved of defendant being accommodated with a chair in the dock.

Mr. Potter said he appeared to prosecute for the Crown with the consent of the Attorney General. He proceeded to mention the charge of perjury against all the legal phraseology and took the jury back to 1912 in which year three men—the defendant, Hung Shun Yu and Leung Tze Chi were partners in the King Cheong Wo firm, 80 Bonham Strand. In August the same year another firm, comprising the three men mentioned as partners with others, opened the King Cheong Chi firm which was also conducted from 80 Bonham Strand. In 1913 there was a dispute between the partners and afterwards Leung Tze Chi was arrested on a charge of embezzling $1,500 in December 1912. Defendant was discharged at the close of the prosecution, and the charge of perjury was an afterthought as the Crown was charged with embezzlement. Mr. Potter proceeded in respect to the evidence he gave on that occasion. Mr. Potter suggested that the prosecution was started because they wanted to squeeze Leung Tze Chi out of the firm; a case which was not uncommon in the Colony because of the Chinese custom of the partner who would not like to face the music and would abscond. The music in that case was $1,500.

Counsel then proceeded to deal with the details of the indictment and statements alleged to have been made by the prisoner.

FRAUD ON LONDON BANK.

Hotel Smoke-Room Used as Office.

An imputable bank fraud which was carried out in London recently has come to light.

The man for whom the police are searching used the smoke-room of the Hotel Metropole as a temporary office, and telephoned to a well-known firm of typists asking that a lady assistant should be sent for a letter for translation.

On arrival the lady was given a little clerical work to do, and was then requested to go to the bank and cash a cheque. She made a charge for $100 drawn on the South Kensington branch of the National Bank of England in the false name of Willis and in favour of "A. Guyer." Accompanying it was an exchange order signed "G. J. Guyer."

At the British branch of the London County and Westminster Bank, as everything was in order, the cheque was cashed, and the lady returned to the hotel with fifteen £5 notes and ten Treasury notes for £1 each.

On receiving the money the thief soon disappeared his temporary residence and he has not been seen at the hotel since. Several days elapsed before the fraud was discovered. The wanted man is described as being about 50 years of age, height 5 ft. 6 in., or 5 ft. 7 in., of fair complexion, with light hair, mustache dark, strongly marked, thin, grey, full round face, wearing spectacles, and of medium build. He was wearing a black frock coat, dark trousers, and an old-fashioned silk hat with a wide brim.

It is impossible to trace the numbers of the Treasury notes, but 14 of the £5 notes are known to be numbered.

TRAGIC AIR DRAMA.

Flier's Flight.

A correspondent of Pitt's Journal in the north of France recounts a thrilling story of a French aviator who was blinded in mid-air by a fragment of shrapnel.

His story is a remarkable one, and he has been down by the enemy's fire on his way back. The observer was killed, and the pilot, a sergeant, though otherwise practically uninjured, was blinded.

"I was at a height of about fifteen hundred feet," said the Sergeant. "When a shell burst around me, and I felt as if my head had been torn open. I felt as though I were floating, but the pain suddenly ceased and all around was dark, absolutely black."

"I must be asleep," said the Sergeant. "When a shell burst around me, and I felt as if my head had been torn open. I felt as though I were floating, but the pain suddenly ceased and all around was dark, absolutely black."

BRITISH AND GERMAN METHODS CONTRASTED.

New York, Oct. 24.
At an interview of representatives of the Associated Press of America, the Home Secretary (Sir John Simon) said there was no parallel in the whole record of Great Britain, to those of Miss Cavell. Even in cases which were clearly proved to be espionage, Britain had not sentenced a woman to death. Sir John Simon explained the vast opportunities for defence granted to persons accused of military offences, and cited a case of a German woman who, while acting in association with a male spy, and both were overwhelmingly convicted of espionage, the woman was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment.

U.S. STERLING EXCHANGE.

THE REIGN OF TERROR.

A "GHASTLY NARRATIVE" OF GERMAN TYRANNY.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 24.
A ghastly narrative of "the paternal administration of Belgium under General von Bissing" is told by the Antwerp correspondent of the Telegraph. Nobody, he says, is now safe in Belgium. Many men have been sentenced to death during the past fortnight, and thirty-two to penal servitude for long terms. Four women were also sentenced to death: a French teacher named Thibault, Countess de Belleville, a tailor named Bezeat, and Miss Cavell. Up to the present only Miss Cavell has been executed.

The heroism of Miss Cavell, likewise that of Louise Freney, who was executed at Liege, even affected the German firing squad, the victims of whom did not aim at the victims, resulting in Louise Freney being wounded in the leg, while Miss Cavell was only hit by one of twelve bullets. Hence, the officers were obliged to give the coup de grace, shooting them in the ear.

The Germans are now compelling Belgian workmen to perform military duties, saying that neither Belgian law nor international agreements are any excuse for refusal, as only the German military commander is allowed to decide. Another German proclamation has summoned young Belgians to report themselves, and those obeying are sent to an unknown destination.

IMPORTANT ITALIAN PROGRESS.

Rome, Oct. 24.
Further progress at many points is reported in the latest communications, which says:—Westward of Lake Garda we stormed Mount Nodice, completing the command of the Lebro Valley. We captured a strong redoubt in the vicinity of Colchiana.

The importance of Thursday's success in the Salsola Valley is confirmed. We have up to the present buried 426 of the enemy there. The progress on the upper and middle Isonzo is also confirmed.

Two violent enemy counter-attacks at Maril were repulsed. We took 157 prisoners.

Despite the enemy's fierce resistance supported by numerous powerful batteries, we progressed along practically the whole of the Carso front, particularly at San Martino, and captured 2,000 prisoners, 60 officers, seven machine-guns, and quantities of munitions and material.

MISS CAVELL'S LAST MOMENTS.

DETAILS OF THE ATROCITY.

LONDON, Oct. 24.
Pathe's added to the horror of the murder of Miss Cavell by the description of her last moments which is furnished by the Rev. Gahan, the British Chaplain in Brussels, which has been forwarded to the Foreign Office by the American Ambassador. He writes: "I was admitted to the prison by a special passport the evening before the execution. I was astonished and relieved to find that Miss Cavell was perfectly calm and resigned. She said she wished her friends to know that she willingly died for her country, and added: 'I do not fear, nor am I shrinking. I have seen death too often. It is not strange or fearful. But patriotism is not enough; I must have no hatred or bitterness for anyone.' Then, we had Holy Communion together. She received the Gospel of Consolation with all her heart, and then she repeated softly the words of 'Abide with me' to the end, afterwards giving me messages for relatives and friends. When she said 'goodbye' she smiled and said 'we shall meet again.' The German military chaplain, after the execution, said that she was brave and bright to the last, professed the Christian faith, and died like a heroine.

WESTERN FRONT.

A HOHENZOLLERN REQUISITE INCIDENT.

LONDON, Oct. 24.
Reuter's correspondent at Hohenzollern, describing the British attack which captured the main branch of the Hohenzollern railway, says that after the initial success the fight resolved itself into a series of isolated bombing encounters, parties being sent up the various trenches in an endeavour to force a way to the enemy's main line. One party held its own against a strong German attack, though many were killed and wounded, till their barricade was literally blown in. The Captain commanding then ordered his men to construct another barricade thirty yards behind, he himself remaining alone at the first barrier, sheltering as best he could behind the smashed parapet, and by constant bombing holding off the enemy, who was only a few yards distant, till the second barricade was completed.

Faction Among German Generals.

According to the "Reitz" quoted by the "Morning Post" correspondent, friction has arisen between the various members of the higher German command.

General von Hindenburg's party insist upon advance at all costs. Another party, headed by General von Mackensen, advise the securing of a strong defensive position on the line Bismarck-Grodno-Brest-Kovel-Dunaburg, until the line of communications can be thoroughly re-organized.

This party points out the impossibility of satisfactory progress over from seven to eight hundred miles of front without perfect order in the rear. The present fear is served by imperfect railways and broken bridges, while the high roads are in no better condition.

Saturday's Football.

The Royal Engineers defeated the Hongkong F.C. in a practice match at the Club ground on Saturday by 6 goals to 2. The Club, with only three of last year's team—Halling, To, and Pennell—did not show up too well, although hardly deserving to lose by so big a margin. Black at left back and McTavish in the forwards did most work, the goals being scored by To and McTavish.

The H.E. were an excellent team and well-balanced display, the forwards combination and passing, supported by good men at half, leading to five goals by Townsend and one by White. Launce Compl. Davies acted as referee.

R.G.'s "Probable" beat "Possible" by 2-1 at Happy Valley in a keenly contested game between strong teams. A keen game between Belcher and the Staff and the eventual result in a win for the latter by 1-0. Corp. Brown scored.
